

Abigail Krueger
Senior Risk Advisor

Abigail Krueger is a senior advisor with Licata Risk Advisors.

Ms. Krueger's brings over 20 years of insurance and risk experience, with thirteen years of that experience serving as a risk management consultant and advisor. She has served in this role for three of the significant providers of independent risk management consulting. Prior to entering the consulting field, she served as a commercial insurance brokerage key account manager. This position arose from her work as a claims advocate where she championed the rights of insureds to insurance companies. She has also served as brokerage IT manager, claims adjuster, commercial insurance broker, and trainer. She brings particular expertise in client information management and bringing efficiency to the risk management process.

Ms. Krueger holds the following designations:

CPCU (Chartered Property & Casualty Underwriter)
ARM (Associate in Risk Management)
AIC (Associate in Claims)

She has served as Adjunct Faculty in Northeastern University's Insurance program and has served as an author of publications on affordable housing risk management.

Ms. Krueger is a graduate of the University of Chicago, with a degree in Behavioral Science.
